

Part of our study of economics is a field trip to a REAL market place. We will be going to the Mile High Flea Market. The exciting thing about this field trip is the kids will be observing and responding to questions on a worksheet such as:

- What do sellers do to lure, or attract, customers to their store?
- Are items priced reasonably
- Are customers allowed to make an offer or are prices set?
- What are the most common type of items sold?
- What is the most unusual item for sale?
- How do you think these sellers are making a profit?
